

Implementation Review

Overview

You will review your progress on implementing your system. Your system will not yet be complete, but this review allows you to present your status and conduct an additional round of bug-checking.

You Should Turn In

A written report:

- List of every hardware or software module in the system. Identify their status as a percentage of code design completion and testing completion.
- Source code for each module.
- Results of unit testing so far.

A presentation in class:

- List of hardware and software modules and status.
- Be ready to walk through code of any module or any test, based on requests from the class.
